How we work

Virtual World is proud to work with some of the world's most significant brands that have entrusted to us the task of staging, shooting and fulfilling their virtual needs showcasing their properties and products to the world in a stunning digital format.

We fully appreciate that every shoot is different and work on all the necessary details with those responsible until we are both happy with the planned shoot and format.

It is only then, that the team will arrange the dates and details of the shoot, the length of time required to complete the shoot and the number of staff required. Each bespoke shoot takes a good two weeks before it is ready for the client's final approval before it goes live via the Internet to the world at large.
